 Ground Zero Month see page 2

TREVECCA COLLEGE ARCHIVES
Spring Chapel Schedule see page 3

Crossword see page 5

1	2	3	4
12
15
18
			22 trev-echoes

vol. 39, no. 10

trevecca nazarene college

april 8, 1983

Melvin Taylor: NAIA All-American

Last week, Melvin Taylor, a Senior from Mt. Pleasant, Tennessee, became the second Trojan in two years to make NAIA First Team All-American, and the first Trevecca basketball player ever. (Last year tennis player Dick Johannsen earned the honor.)

Taylor, who is known throughout the VSAC (and even the NAIA) for his long-range marksmanship and ability to take the ball inside with quickness, has worked hard for the honor, trying to improve on last year's Honorable Mention status.

He scored 848 points in this, his final season at Trevecca, and 2079 points over his four year career. In racking up those points, Taylor scored in double figures in 36 of 37 games; 20 or more points in 28 games and 30 or more points in three games, including a season and career high of 40 points against arch-rival David Lipscomb in the first game of the District 24 Tournament.

Along with that Taylor broke many of the school's records including most points in a season (848), most career points (2079) and most free throw attempts and free throws made in a season, hitting 224 of 269 tries for 83.3%.

Leading up to his All-American status, Taylor collected several other honors. He was named Most Valuable Player of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference (VSAC) and a member of the All-Conference team, as well as the NAIA All-District team for the second year in a row. He led the District with an average of 22.9 points per game.

Taylor was also named NAIA

National Player-of-the-week in February and was District Player-of-the-week two weeks in a row. He was also named to the All-Tournament team and MVP of the Lee College Tournament and to the All-

Tournament team at the University of Charleston (WV) tournament.

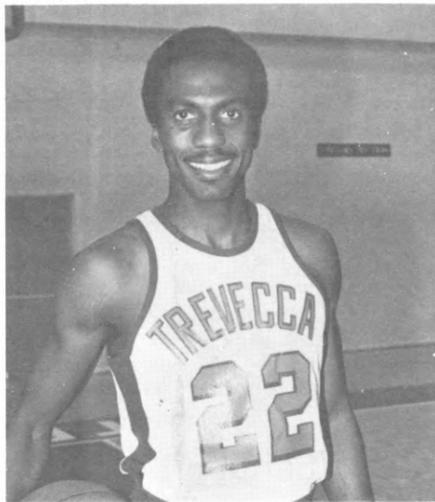

Along with his success on the basketball court, Melvin is also involved in other campus activities. He serves as Executive

Treasurer for the Associated Student Body, President of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, sings in the Men's Choir and was one of the student speakers for last quarter's Spiritual Renewal Week.

Taylor was recruited and signed to the Trojan squad by former coach Ron Bargatze. He was considering enrolling at Oral Roberts University, but was impressed with Bargatze.

However, at the same time Taylor became a freshman at Trevecca, Bargatze jumped at an offer for the head coaching job at Austin Peay and Frank Wilson came from Olivet to take over the program.

Now, four years later, many Trojan fans are glad he decided to go with TNC. With the All-American honor in hand, everyone's looking to see what's next for the Trojan star.

Melvin Taylor
1983 NAIA All-American

ASB elections set for April 14

By Tom Felder
Editor

The transition in student government begins next week as students go to the polls and elect ten of their peers to fill the top spots in the Student Government Assembly (SGA).

Next week official campaigning begins and on Thursday, April 14, the 1983 ASB election will take place. Speeches will be given during chapel in McClurkan Auditorium and voting will follow.

Below is a synopsis of the background and qualifications of each candidate. The information was submitted by the candidates and only a report on those who participated is available.

Unlike last year, this year's race for ASB President includes only one candidate. Rocky Jenkins, a senior majoring in Computer Information Systems is seeking the top office.

Jenkins presently holds the position of ASB Executive Vice President, the position under the President. He has served as Freshman class representative, Chapel Chairperson, and Admissions Counselor. He has participated in the Nazarene Student Leadership Conference twice and has served on the Religious Life Committee.

Jenkins' goals are to see that the duties of the SGA are carried out, to increase student awareness and interest in student government and to develop new methods of finding what the "Student's voice" is and using the best techniques to relay this to the administration.

He also states that he will be open to changes and will try to maintain a healthy working environment within SGA in order to increase harmony and unity. Training students for future leadership positions is also one of his goals.

The office of Executive Vice President has three candidates. They are Bev Adams, Jenny Fisher and Rondy McBrayer.

Adams' past experience includes two years as an SGA representative for her class, secretary for the Religious Life Committee (RLC), and chairperson of the Academic Affairs Committee. Her goal is to fulfill the duties of this office satisfactorily and efficiently.

Jenny Fisher, a Senior Accounting major is also seeking the office of Executive Vice President. She presently serves as Senior Class representative and Resident Assistant for Bud Robinson Dorm.

Fisher's other experience includes service on the Dormitory Life Council and Student Life

Committee, both of which are chaired by the Executive Vice President.

Her goals are to voice the concerns and meet the needs of Trevecca students and to use her experience in working with the Executive Vice President and Resident Counselor to do this.

The office of Executive Secretary is being sought by three candidates also. They are Nancy Abell, Cindi Melton and Dee Metcalf.

Nancy Abell is a Senior majoring in Business Administration. She has served as RA this past year and works in the Development office. Her goals for this office are promptness, in regards to typing and posting minutes; keeping all correspondence accurate and up-to-date and helping the other officers where needed.

Cindi Melton is an Accounting / Business Administration major and is in her Junior year. She is a member of the Honor Society, Treble-Tones, Handbell Choir and a Community Living Council (CLC) subcommittee member. She has also served as an officer for her

Continued on page 3

Dr. Adams elected to second term

TNC News Bureau

Dr. Homer J. Adams has been unanimously reelected president of Trevecca Nazarene College by the College Board of Trustees.

Coming to the College as president in March 1979, Dr. Adams was Vice-President of Administration at De Kalb College in Atlanta. Prior to this, he has served as professor of history and dean at Trevecca. He has also served as vice-president of the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene.

A graduate of Trevecca, Adams holds a masters and doctorate degrees from Peabody College.

During the Adam's administration, Trevecca has seen significant progress, including stabilization and growth in enrollment, a massive debt liquidation campaign, renovation of campus buildings and a campus beautification project and launching a $2.2 million fund drive for a Student Life Center. The College has operated within a balanced budget for most of the past four years.

Dr. Homer Adams

In other action by the board the 1983-84 budget of $6,152,858 was adopted, which reflects an 8.2% increase. Salary increases of 5% were approved for faculty and staff. Tuition will increase by $85 a quarter.

New faculty members for 1983-84 were approved, including Dr. Ronald F. Gray,

Continued on page 2

Nuclear Freeze activists preparing to play games with students

By David Gaede
College Press Service

In an effort to involve more students in what has been a largely faculty-run campus nuclear freeze movement, anti-nuke organizers are preparing to play games with the American student body.

Heeding advice from campus activists to come up with "creative alternatives to the same old rhetoric" or risk letting the movement die of apathy, movement leaders are sending out copies of a huge game called "Firebacks" to campuses nationwide.

The game, to be played out through the month of April, lets the players assume the roles of U.S. and Soviet leaders trying to tiptoe their way through a nuclear confrontation.

It amounts to a dramatic departure for the movement itself.

Ground Zero — the national pro-freeze coalition which drew worldwide attention for its Ground Zero Week activities last April — has made a number of other changes this year, again at the behest of its campus reps, who for some time have feared the movement was stagnating and failing to attract widespread participation from students.

"We're calling this spring's events 'Son of Ground Zero' because it has changed and evolved so much from last year's Ground Zero Week," says group spokesman Ellis Woodward.

The most obvious change: Ground Zero Week has become Ground Zero Month.

Organizers hope the expanded time will give students more flexibility in planning events. It'll also give them a chance to move away from speeches and debates, and into action.

"People are now aware there is a threat," Woodward explains. "Now we want to restructure people's thinking to show them how easily world events could lead to a nuclear confrontation."

Ground Zero has done its ground work. It began promoting the game last fall, and has already mailed over 3000 "Firebacks" kits to college campuses, high schools, and community groups. The group has even tested the games, which cost $10 and can be played by any number of people, on two campuses.

Each player is a high-level advisor to one of the two superpowers, coping with a tense blow-up in international relations.

"In the opening scenes," Woodward says, "a crisis develops in Nicaragua, and a Solidarity-like union protest happens in East Germany."

"With Soviet MIGs on the way to Nicaragua, the advisors for both the American and Soviet teams must decide how to defuse the situation, and prepare for a possible nuclear confrontation from the other side."

Each week during April, Ground Zero will mail groups updates on the crisis, advising players of new developments and confrontations. The climax will come in late April, when the superpowers must either resolve the conflict or blow the world up, Woodward says.

Previews of the game have been raves.

"We were very impressed by the early version we played," says David Justice, dean of DePaul University's School for New Learning, which helped test "Firebacks."

"Students realized very quickly that trust is the key factor in such a crisis," he observes. "There's a feeling of desperation at times, but a feeling as well that you can get beyond (the crisis)."

Georgetown University students, who also tested the game, "thought it was very, very good," reports Madeline Albright of the International Relations Dept.

"Many" Georgetown students liked it enough "to play the upcoming game on their own," she adds.

Woodward says that's the point. Student involvement in the seasonal fall and spring protests since 1981 has never been as high as organizers, who are largely faculty members and scientists, wanted.

Though students obviously played a large part, even in the euphoria of last April's huge nationalwide turnout many activists were disappointed by the student turnout.

"I would not hesitate to call the students apathetic," David Kesler of Southwestern University in Memphis told College Press Service last spring.

Things didn't get much better at November's anti-nuclear "provocations" on some 400 campuses.

"Student turnout on the whole was very light," lamented Sanford Gottlieb, head of United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War (UCAN) in Washington, D.C.

So this time, DePaul's Justice says, the movement will move "beyond the point of warning what would happen, and now is showing people how it would happen, and how to prevent it."

The emphasis on action seems to be paying off. "Many instructors are ordering copies of the game to play in political science and international relations classes," Woodward says.

Continued on page 3

Study: College grads earn more over a lifetime

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) — College graduates earn about 40 percent more over a lifetime than non-grads, but men continue to earn about twice as much as women regardless of educational attainment, a new Census Bureau study shows.

Male college grads can expect to earn from $1.2 to $2.75 million over a lifetime, according to the study, while male high school grads will take in only $860,000 to $1.87 million.

Women, on the other hand, will make from $520,000 to $1.2 million if they have college degrees, and between $380,000 and $800,000 with only high school diplomas, the study reports.

"We have to caution, however, that the main purpose of the study was to show average expected lifetime earnings based on educational attainment," notes Census Bureau statistician John Coder.

"A lot of people would like to say the difference (between men's and women's earnings) is due to discrimination, and some of it may well be," Coder explains. "But to attribute it all to discrimination would be very unfair."

"For one thing," he points out, "women tend to have more interruptions in their lifetime work schedules. And the occupations they go into may be lower paying than traditionally male-dominated job areas."

Nevertheless, Coder adds, "the ratio between what women with college degrees and men with college degrees earn has changed very little since the early seventies."

"Things may be changing (for women in the workforce)," he says, "but they are changing very slowly."

Schubert graduate of Eastern Nazarene

CCC chooses two more for Board of Reference

Christian College News

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Two more individuals have accepted an invitation to become members of the Board of Reference of the Christian College Coalition, President John Dellenback has announced. They are Richard F. Schubert and Dr. Jay Kesler.

Mr. Schubert, a 1958 graduate of Coalition-member Eastern Nazarene College in Massachusetts and of the Yale University Law School, became president Jan. 1 of the national American Red Cross.

Dr. Kesler is president of Youth for Christ/USA, "an organization which for nearly 40 years has worked to develop balanced living among youth and their parents along with meaningful involvement in local churches," a YFC brochure states. He graduated from Taylor University, also a CCC-member.

Youth for Christ has organized 109 junior high school clubs and 1,065 senior high clubs in various parts of the United States which currently involve 370,000 young people annually. Dr. Kesler's other activities include service on the boards of Prison Fellowship and Christianity Today.

In his present position, Mr. Schubert (who received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Eastern Nazarene in 1975) is chief executive officer of the American Red Cross and implements policies adopted by the corporation's board of governors in its world-wide operations. In his previous position, he was vice chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel, and before that president.

The Board of Reference serves as an advisory body for the Coalition and is composed of committed Christians who are supportive of Christian colleges in the individually unique ways their expertise, positions and schedules make possible.

This Month In . . .

one

"I did not know yet that comfortable, well-fed Americans could themselves someday become victims of the same indifference and greed and blindness, and the same political and economic injustices, that caused hunger among their neighbors."

In the April cover story of ONE Magazine, Loretta Schwartz-Nobel investigates Starving in the Shadow of Plenty.

ONE probes the crisis of hunger and the Christian's responsibility to the 25 million hidden poor in America. In related articles, ONE reports on the causes and possible solutions to the issue of world hunger. A gripping short story illustrates the gap between the "haves" and the "have nots", rounding out this month's offerings.

one

Dr. Adams . . . from page 1

professor of mathematics, Walter L. Heck, assistant professor of music and James H. Warren, associate professor of drama and communication. Four faculty members were approved for tenure: Dr. James G. Quiggins, Dr. Thomas R.

Rosebrough, Dr. Ralph F. Ungar and Dr. Earl E. Vastbinder.

Approved for promotion in rank were: Troy R. Blann to assistant professor, Randy L. Carden to assistant professor, Richard E. Egnor to assistant professor, Steven H. Fransley to associate professor, Dr. Ann K. Fuqua to professor, Wayne Gallup to assistant professor, Craig S. Keen to associate professor, James A. Knear to associate professor, and Dr. Ralph G. Leverett to professor.

Los Angeles First Church begins new graduate program in Urban training

Los Angeles First Church of the Nazarene is announcing its inaugural session of the Graduate Program in Urban Training this coming September.

The graduate program, already accredited through Azusa Pacific University, is seeking formal relationship in the next few weeks with Fuller Seminary and Point Loma Nazarene College. These institutions are currently negotiating a variety of Master's degree programs, including the M.A., M.M. (Master) and the M. Div. degrees, in which the concentration of urban study courses would be offered at the L.A. Church facility.

In the initial year, at least six courses will be taught out of an urban perspective. These courses will range from urban anthropology and urban sociology, to urban theology and cross cultural ministry. A feature of the training will be the direct urban exposure and ministry experiences that should help potential Christian workers to sharpen their skills for urban ministry and create a greater focus of Christian presence within the city environment.

Los Angeles, regarded as the most "internationalized city in the world", is an appropriate place for such a studies program, according to the Fletcher Tink, director of the program. It ranks in the list of the top dozen urban concentrations in the world and is often looked at as a trend setter of the future. He sees it as natural that the L.A. First Church should be the setting of this innovative program.

The Church was founded by the denominational founder, Dr. Phineas F. Bresee, and still contains many of the records of his vigorous commitment to both the poor and the urban environment. It is his name that has been given to the wide range of study programs now being offered by the Church.

Currently, 65 Spanish-speaking students are taking classes at the Church in a full range of Bible School courses. Late this spring, a Korean Bible School will begin. And for the past several summers, the Church has received a contingency of interns, who, starting this summer will now receive formal undergraduate credit for their involvement in Los Angeles.

Tink reports that all professors under consideration are both academically qualified in their field of specialization and are practitioners within an urban ministry context. Although the faculty represents a strongly Wesleyan slant to their perspectives, they are being looked to, by many interdenominational groups as effective leaders in the area of urban ministries.

A Foundation has been created to help raise funds for students who are willing to serve a 9 month stretch as interns. The grant monies that will become available to these interns will pay for tuition, housing, and other incidental costs. For college students contemplating entering into this frontier of ministry, the Bresee Institute encourages inquiries. For those interested either in the undergraduate summer program or the full year graduate program correspondence should be directed to:

Bresee Institute
Care of:
Director Fletcher Tink
3401 W. 3rd St.
Los Angeles, CA. 90004

Elections . . . from page 1

Freshman and Sophomore classes.

Melton wants to see more students participate in student government and to voice her opinion and those of other students.

Dee Metcalf is the third candidate for the office of Executive Secretary. She is a Sophomore, majoring in Business Administration and currently serves as student secretary for Professor Steve Farnsley.

Metcalf is a member of Sigma Society, Concert, Stage and Pep Bands and chaired the Decorations Committee for this year's Valentine activities. She also served as President of Bud Robinson Dorm during the Fall and Winter and is currently RA in Johnson Dorm.

Metcalf plans to use her experience in leadership positions and in her job as writer for the TNC News Bureau to perform the duties of Executive Secretary. Her key word is "organization" and she plans to do her best to keep student government running efficiently.

Continued on page 5

Opportunities are there for Friends of Spencer

From staff reports

There are many local opportunities for the talents of college students. One such opportunity is Spencer Youth Center.

Spencer Youth Center is a State of Tennessee correctional institution for male juvenile offenders aged 14 through 18. The center is operated by the Youth Services Division of the Department of Correction.

The youth are placed in this center after careful consideration has been made by the courts. The boys are placed in Spencer Youth Center as the "most appropriate treatment alternative available." When the youth are placed at Spencer they are not committed to a specific length of time, but must earn their release through appropriate stages of behavior. The average stay for these youth is about six months.

Persons may be interested in getting involved in the "Friends of Spencer" program which has been set up for the concern of the residences there. The Friends of Spencer program invites those who are interested to volunteer their time and services to the youth at the center.

Friends of Spencer recruits and places volunteers where they may be most effective in specific volunteer jobs and these volunteers are certified by the organization before receiving their job assignment.

Friends of Spencer includes many types of programs. Some of them are listed below.

A Volunteer Visitor — In this program the volunteer gets directly involved with the student of Spencer through weekly visits at the youth center during designated hours.

The Pen Pal — Most of the boys at Spencer live in other parts of the state so letters are very important to them. The pen pal program is a program designed to help fill this empty spot with regular letters from a friend

Sunday School — Some volunteers help teach Sunday School classes. These volunteers also help the institution's chaplain in providing a weekly worship service.

Adopt a Dorm — is one of the more recently created programs. This program was established when the dormitories were renovated. "Groups are needed to provide extra touches such as curtains, pictures, throw rugs, games, etc. Also groups are needed to meet with groups of Spencer students at their dormitory for some activities at regular intervals."

There are many other ways to support or get involved with the Friends of Spencer Program. A volunteer registration form or additional information about any of the Friends of Spencer jobs may be obtained by telephoning the Office of Volunteer Services (615) 242-2400 or by writing to:

Friends of Spencer Inc.
Route 3, Stewart's Lane
Nashville, Tennessee 37218

Ground Zero Month

. . . from page 2

"I'm going to use it in two of my classes," says E.J. Stanley, a geology instructor at Cal State Polytechnic.

Likewise, Guilford College sociology Prof. Cyrus Johnson has been "looking for new and different and better ways to sensitize students to the nuclear issue," and will use "Firebreaks" in several of his classes.

And though Pacific Union College English instructor Norman Wendth can't find an excuse to use the game in his English classes, "we do plan to use it somehow with students and faculty members."

Campus organizers aren't completely giving up on the old rallying tactics, however. "We're working with all of our 600 campuses to organize lectures, debates and films to inform people about the Russians," says UCAN spokeswoman Laura Kuckes.

CHAPEL SCHEDULE — SPRING QUARTER — 1983

T	April 5	Benson Lectures: Rev. Jim Diehl
W	April 6	Benson Lectures: Rev. Jim Diehl
Th	April 7	Benson Lectures: Rev. Jim Diehl
F	April 8	Benson Lectures: Rev. Jim Diehl (Evening services Tues., Wed., Thurs. at 7:00 p.m. in McClurkan)
M	April 11	Mark Parker
T	April 12	Chaplain Dunnington
Th	April 14	SGA Elections — Candidate Speeches
F	April 15	Rev. Claude Nicholas
M	April 18	Doug Reid
W	April 20	Dr. Adams
Th	April 21	Concert Choir — Chapel Concert
F	April 22	Gary Sivewright
M	April 25	Jeff Hiatt
T	April 26	Chaplain Dunnington
Th	April 28	Dr. Earl Vastbinder
F	April 29	Dr. Billy Browning
M	May 2	Kevin Mims
T	May 3	SGA Class Elections — Candidate Speeches
Th	May 5	Hal Cauthron
F	May 6	Kinderhaus
M	May 9	Class Chapel
T	May 10	Chaplain Dunnington
Th	May 12	Gerald Skinner
F	May 13	Rev. Charles Johnson
M	May 16	Lloyd Brock
T	May 17	Chaplain Dunnington
Th	May 19	Dr. Millard Reed
F	May 20	Dr. Millard Reed
M	May 23	RLC Vice-President 1983-84
T	May 24	Chaplain Dunnington
Th	May 26
F	May 27	Claude Diehl
M	May 30	Memorial Day Service — Veterans Club
T	May 31	Conference of Chairman: Special Honors Chapel
Th	June 2	ASB Installation — Darrell Wright
F	June 3	Awards Chapel

editorial

Should Seniors be exempt from final exams?

I would like to suggest that our policy of exempting graduating seniors from final examinations in the Spring quarter is at the very least counter-productive.

There seem to be three arguments for such exemption. The first is that it is a tradition at Trevecca which has been in effect for years, which students have come to accept to the point that they look forward to the time when they will be released from the burden of final examinations their last quarter here. Thus, to change such a tradition would be upsetting, and also unfair, since so many others have enjoyed this treat.

The second argument is that seniors deserve exemption from finals. They have been here already for nearly four years (or more), they have taken exams scores of times, they are about to leave this school as the products of Trevecca; therefore, since they have done so much, no more should be required of them. That is, graduating seniors have earned the privilege of release from final examinations.

The third argument is that we need to have graduation early so that there will be good attendance, so that choirs (et al.) will be available, and so that non-graduating students can attend.

I'd like to answer these arguments in reverse order

If graduation were held soon after final examinations, those non-graduating students who wish to attend would not be significantly inconvenienced, i.e., they could hang around an extra couple of days. Choir members (et al.) who participate in graduation ceremonies could be required to remain on campus. Attendance, it seems, would be adequate. But, there is another alternative, too.

Graduation could be kept at the traditional date before final exams. Graduating seniors would go through the ceremonies as usual, except that they would not receive their diplomas at that time. Their diplomas would be mailed to them when they have successfully completed all the requirements for their courses (including final examinations). This is similar to what is done already in the case of a summer graduate.

The second argument: Is it not true that when one identifies with Jesus Christ, when one becomes a Christian, that one lays aside privilege? Is it not true that Christians are called to be servants rather than to claim special rights? Can a servant say, "I deserve..." or is it not rather true that one who has died with Christ on the cross deserves nothing at all? If you do not agree with the implications of these rhetorical questions, that's fine, but, please propose a solid argument for your position.

It seems very clear to me that if Trevecca is indeed a Christian institution, that it cannot tolerate any form of elitism. It also seems to me that exempting seniors from final examinations is often argued for in an elitist way. Further, if we give final examinations at all, then it should be true that they are helpful.

Let's say they are helpful. If we exempt graduating seniors from them, aren't we committing (at the least) an error of omission? On the other side if final exams are not helpful, then aren't we obliged to stop giving them to everybody? If they are non-productive tortures, then why require anyone to take them?

If these arguments are convincing and valid, then it seems that it would be very inappropriate to maintain this tradition, even if people have looked forward to it for a long time. Every tradition which is counter-productive needs to be changed.

If my arguments hold, it would be fair, not unfair, to change this specific tradition. Further, the fact that some people would be upset by the change would be minimized by the other fact that no longer would graduating seniors have to complete the same amount of work in a course in a shorter period of time than others, which is often the case in classes here (which it seems to me is infinitely preferable to not holding some students responsible for the last section of a course). Besides, if the policy is not in accord with what we try so very hard to accomplish at Trevecca, then upsetting people is a price that must be paid.

Craig Keen

EDITORIAL POLICY

The opinions expressed in editorials and letters are not necessarily those of the students, faculty or administration of Trevecca Nazarene College, or the Trev-Echoes staff, but are those of the author.

Letters are welcomed, but they must be typed and should not exceed 300 words. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, but names may be withheld upon request.

Trev-Echoes reserves the right to edit without impairing the meaning.

How to pick a candidate

The countdown has begun. Petitions have been filed, speeches are being prepared and the candidates for ASB office are preparing for the big election day — April 14th.

On that day ten persons will be chosen by the student body to direct the various branches of student government next year. Their election also gives them certain responsibilities. The candidates have a lot to do for the next couple of weeks and following the election the winners will begin preparing for next year.

However, up until election day, the major responsibility in this event lies with us — the voters. Here are some pictures on how to pick the right candidates.

1. Examine the credentials of all candidates carefully. It is important that those who hold the respective offices have some experience. Terms only last one year and it takes long enough to learn the routine as it is. If you elect someone who has no experience at all, it will take considerably longer for them to do a good job.

What kind of experience helps? Voters should examine the candidates major, minor, work and other practical experience. For example, almost every officer in SGA has a committee for which they are responsible, and service on these committees will naturally give someone a better perspective for the job at hand. However, do not think that service on a committee automatically means that someone is the best person for the job.

2. Secondly, be aware of the qualifications and duties of the specific offices. This can be done by reading the ASB Constitution, and copies may be obtained in the student government office on the ground floor of McClurkan.

3. Next, you should make sure that the credentials of the candidates are compatible with the qualifications of the office. Does this particular candidate have the secretarial skills necessary to perform his/her duties? Does this one know enough about the workings of this office to be effective? These, and other similar questions should be asked of every candidate.

4. Experience is not the only thing necessary for doing a good job. It is also important that the candidate have the necessary communication and leadership skills, as well as a personality that will suit the task at hand.

An ASB officer must constantly walk the tightrope between students and administration. He or she must do what is best for Trevecca, which means tact at certain times, as well as persistence at others. Does the candidate that you have in mind have the personality and communication skills necessary for the job?

5. Even after looking at all of these areas, the decision is not always clear. Just remember you still have the option of questioning the candidates personally. Your vote is important and most of the candidates will be glad to discuss their ideas with you.

There is no set formula for choosing the right candidate. These steps may help in weeding out those who are merely running on the "popularity" platform. Yet, there are no guarantees that anyone will do a good job. But, if you do your best to pick the right people, then it is their responsibility to serve you to the best of their ability.

Tom

"MY SCHEDULE WORKED OUT GREAT. BARB IN SOCIOLOGY, KATE IN HISTORY AND JENNY IN MATH CLASS . . . AND THEY NEVER SEE ME WITH ANYBODY ELSE."

trev-echoes

editor-in-chief, Tom Felder

associate editor, Adrienne Y. Austin business manager, Nathan Hyde features editor, Sheri McMurrin; sports editor, Gregg Tulowitzky; production manager, Darla Murphy; promotion manager, Dee Metcalf; entertainment editor, Melanie Turpin; staff writers: Kandy Archer; Carol Barnard; Erica Gaebler; D.J. Gray; Vickie Jenkins; Beth Tucker; Randy Lewis; Linda Dickens; sports writer: Billy Goodson; contributing writers: Lloyd Brock, Darrell Wright, Rocky Jenkins, Bev Adams, Craig Keen, Laura Paxman; faculty advisor, Bill MacKay offices are located on the ground floor of McClurkan across from the Bookstore. mailing address: Box 1646, Nashville, TN 37203-4411

Trev-Echoes is the official student newspaper of Trevecca Nazarene College

entertainment

DRABBLE ©

by Kevin
Fagin

84 Darda both a balance and appeal. He also states that he is willing to devote the time and work necessary to get the job done.

Linda Dickens, a Junior Communications major, is seeking the office of Trev-Echoes Editor. She has served the past three years as staff writer for the student newspaper and has also worked in paste-up and production.

Dickens feels that her background in journalism, technical and creative writing, photography, ad sales and office procedures will enable her to "uphold the tradition of Trev-Echoes as a credible, consistent, interesting source of information with news relevant and vital to the college community." She also wants to maintain a high degree of professionalism and dependable, motivated staff.

Those are the candidates for next year's ASB office. Speeches will take place next Thursday, April 14th, and the election will follow.

HALF WIT

Every year when April 1st rolls around I'm tempted to re-write a verse of scripture. Before you label me a heretic let me explain. You see, I'm convinced that it's not the meek that will inherit the earth — it's the nerds.

How nice to have a National Nerd Holiday (we call it April Fools Day so nobody's feelings will get hurt) to celebrate the village idiots from coast to coast.

The nerds are everywhere all the time, but last week, on April Fool's Day, they came out of the woodwork bringing their slide-rules, their number two pencils, their fluffy black and white dice hanging from the rear view mirrors of their cars, and making constant reference to the pretty pink Flamingos standing out in their yards. (If your Dad and Mom have pink Flamingos in the yard please fogive me. But, don't worry, Nerdism is not necessarily hereditary.)

And, it may be that we all have our own interpretation of what's nerd and what is not. In my own reputable opinion there are certain articles of clothing that make me break out in hives when I see them, and even if I don't see them coming a buzzer goes off in my head that tells me a nerd is near.

Maybe I better not say what those articles of clothing are. After all April Fool's Day just passed (when we celebrated the presence of nerdism in our country).

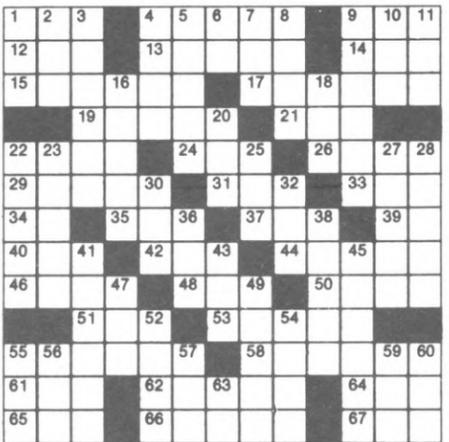

Maybe you know what I'm talking about already. If you don't, then congratulations are in order. Someday you will inherit the earth. No foolin'.

Your RIGHT and RESPONSIBILITY
VOTE!!!

- ACROSS
- 1 Prepare a table
 - 4 Implied
 - 9 Tattered cloth
 - 12 Actor Wallach
 - 13 Confound
 - 14 Time gone by
 - 15 Electrical measure
 - 17 Hit lightly
 - 19 Parcels of land
 - 21 Short sleep
 - 22 Entreaty
 - 24 Dry, as wine
 - 26 Clever
 - 29 Numbers game
 - 31 Vast age
 - 33 Scottish river
 - 34 Silver symbol
 - 35 USNA grad.
 - 37 Cry
 - 39 Grad. degree
 - 40 Penpoint
 - 42 Pitcher part
 - 44 Hesitate
 - 46 High rock
 - 48 Miss Mundy
 - 50 Slender fishes
 - 51 — Etats Unis
 - 53 Body of soldiers
 - 55 Comfort
 - 58 Deer's horn
 - 61 Pub offering
 - 62 Spoor
 - 64 Silkworm
 - 65 Small rug
 - 66 Ardently
 - 67 Weaken
- DOWN
- 1 Black or Red
 - 2 Shade tree
 - 3 Fur scarf
 - 4 Edible rootstock
 - 5 Encourages
 - 6 SF's State
 - 7 Suffix with harp or violin
 - 8 Older — I am
 - 9 Knocked
 - 10 Mature
 - 11 Deity
 - 16 Raise the spirit
 - 18 Mod's home
 - 20 Notice
 - 22 Schemes
 - 23 Reasoning
 - 25 Type of lettuce
 - 27 Thighbone
 - 28 Rips
 - 30 Number
 - 32 Bow
 - 36 Famous
 - uncle
 - 38 Generated
 - 41 "Swan Lake," e.g.
 - 43 Soak
 - 45 Shade trees
 - 47 Old Portuguese coin
 - 49 Holy —
 - 52 Son of Adam
 - 54 Sole
 - 55 Aries
 - 56 Guido note
 - 57 To and —
 - 59 Time period
 - 60 Tear
 - 63 Near

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

FROM COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Elections . . . from page 3

The office of Treasurer has two candidates. They are Ed Savage and Randy Lewis.

Lewis is a Junior Communications major with a minor in Psychology. He is a member of Concert Choir, has worked at WNAZ and participated in drama productions.

Lewis feels that his strong math background and experience in accounting will help him perform the duties of treasurer. His primary goal is to balance the budget.

Eddie Savage is also a junior, majoring in Accounting and Business Administration. He is a member of the Ambassadors, Civitans Club, Business Club, the CLC Judiciary Committee and the Honor Society.

Savage believes that his previous work in financing and retail sales will help him achieve his goal of establishing a successful means of accounting for the SGA and distributing student funds efficiently.

The field of candidates for the office of Vice President of Spiritual Life also stands at two. The first candidate, Geron Rogers, is a Senior majoring in Religion (Pre-Seminary).

Rogers' past experience includes work as a counselor for the Forrest County Youth Court and the University of Southern Mississippi. He is a member of both Psi Chi (national honor society in psychology) and Pi Tau Chi (religion), and has been a Licensed Minister on the Mississippi district since 1980.

Rogers' goals are to "provide a quality spiritual atmosphere" at TNC by promoting various religious oriented speakers and activities and to provide the student body with competent spiritual leadership.

Julie Smith is also a candidate for the office of Vice President of Religious Life. She is a Sophomore majoring in Special Education and presently serves as Chaplain for the Sophomore Class.

Smith was also chaplain for her Freshman class and serves as a member of the Religious Life Committee. She directs the King's Kids portion of Perfect JOY and works in the children's department at First Nazarene.

Smith feels that her membership on and involvement with the Religious Life Committee will help her perform the duties of this office. She wants to encourage more participation, as well as to look for new ministry opportunities and to improve existing programs such as Power Calls, TMA, CWA, and Project JOY.

David Caldwell is the only candidate running for the office of Vice President of Social Activities. He is a Junior and currently holds that position.

The race for Vice President of Trevecca Intramural Association (TIA) also has one candidate. He is Bill Sharpe, a Sophomore, majoring in Accounting with a minor in Computer Information Systems.

Sharpe has been an active participant in intramural athletics since coming to Trevecca and currently serves on the TIA

Council as Beta representative.

Paul David Frank is the candidate for Attorney General. He is a Sophomore and is majoring in Business Administration. He also has a double minor in Accounting and Political Science.

Frank served as Vice-President of the his Freshman class and presently serves as Sophomore representative. He has also held positions on the Financial Affairs Committee and the Dress and Behaviour Committee.

Frank believes that Keith Gray, ASB attorney general, has done an "excellent job" in establishing the framework for this young office and he wants to work on smoothing out the rough edges and building on that framework.

Carl Sparks is seeking to become the new Darda editor. He is a Sophomore also, with a major in Business Administration. He is a member of the Business Club and the Civitans. He has also had experience with yearbooks on both the high school and college level.

His goal is to give the 1983-

sports

Lawyers: Walker could have beaten pro eligibility rule anyway

DETROIT, MI (CPS) — The pro football leagues' rule keeping college players off their rosters until they use up all their college eligibility — the same rule college football defector Herschel Walker and the New Jersey Generals of the U.S. Football League broke in early March — couldn't stand up in court anyway, two University of Detroit law professors have concluded from eight months of legal research into the rule.

The rule "unreasonably restrains trade," contends sports law attorney and teacher Robert McCormick.

Consequently, he believes the rule, if ever challenged in court, couldn't stand up.

McCormick and fellow-lawyer Matthew McKinnon began researching the question soon after Walker, then just finishing his sophomore year of eligibility at the University of Georgia, threatened to sue the National Football League for forbidding any of its teams from drafting Walker until he used up his four years of eligibility after the 1983 college season.

Walker ultimately decided not to file suit, opting to play another year at Georgia.

But McCormick and McKinnon were intrigued with the issue Walker had raised, and, using Walker as an example, began to research the case law to see if the football and track star had a good case.

They concluded he could have won his lawsuit easily.

Walker's contention that the NFL — and by extension the USFL — violated anti-trust laws by forbidding their teams to draft players still eligible to play college ball was probably correct, the law professors say in an article to be published in a law journal this month.

The main reason the pro leagues haven't lost such a case is that no one has sued them over the rule yet. Players, they say, are reluctant to spend the year or so on the sidelines it would take while the case was being litigated.

Some published reports say Walker threatened to sue the USFL this year unless it allowed one of its teams to sign him.

In any event, Walker did sign with the New Jersey Generals for a reported $4.8 million, although he still had a year of eligibility left at Georgia.

Walker's defection enraged many college football officials, who predicted the signing would mean the effective end of the current system.

The NFL also protested the signing, saying it would interfere with athletes' college educations.

McCormick, who teaches sports law at UD's law school, agrees, but believes the NFL has other motives for wanting to preserve the four-year eligibility rule.

The rule gives the NFL a "good, cheap" way to train talent, he says. "Why destroy your farm system?"

But it would be threatened by any reasonable legal challenge anyway, he adds, because the rule seems to contradict anti-trust laws.

To be immune from anti-trust laws, the four-year rule would have to be part of a collective bargaining agreement. But since college players are not NFL employees and are not covered under the NFL's collective bargaining agreement, McCormick argues the rule couldn't pass a court test.

The National Basketball Association lost its four-year rule to a lawsuit by Spencer Haywood, who jumped from the University of Detroit into pro ball when he won the suit on anti-trust grounds.

McCormick doesn't expect Walker's defection this year will cause any more of a migration of collegians into the pros than Haywood's did.

"It probably won't change things that much," he says. Only about six eligible basketball players a year now try to jump from college to pro teams.

HELP!!!

Trev-Echoes needs Sports Writers to help us give this college community the sports coverage it deserves.

If you can help, please do!

Contact: Tom Felder

Box 1646

Ext. 1215

BOX SCORE

Baseball

Trevecca	Opponent	Score
3	Austin Peay	5
7	Vanderbilt	7
5	Tennessee Tech	9
5-4	Ky. Wesleyan	12-3
11	Wheaton	4
1	Austin Peay	3
12	Grand Valley	10
8-13	Aurora	4-4
9	Elmhurst	7
10	Christian Bros.	1
7	Milliken	3
6	Lambuth	15
Record as of 3/30/81:		8-5-1

MEN'S TENNIS

Austin Peay	L 2-4
Michigan State	L 3-6
Murray State	L 1-6
Freed-Hardeman	W 7-2
TN Tech	W 8-1
Greenville	W 6-0
Union	W 7-2
Record as of 3/30/83:	4-3

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Christian Brothers	W 6-3
David Lipscomb	L 4-5
Record of as 3/30/83:	1-1

1982-83 NAIA MEN'S BASKETBALL ALL-AMERICA

Name	School	Ht.	Class	Pos.	Hometown
Sherrod Arnold	Chicago State IL	5-10	Sr.	G	Chicago, IL
Tim Dunham	Chaminade HI	6-2	Sr.	G	Stockton, CA
Marvin Gaines	East Central OK	6-5	Sr.	F	Turner, OK
Kenneth Gilbert	Carson-Newman TN	5-9	Jr.	G	Atlanta, GA
James Harmon	Birmingham-Southern AL	6-6	Sr.	F	Goodwater, AL
Ricky Hooker	St. Mary's TX	6-4	Sr.	F	Graham, NC
Ray Orange	Oklahoma Christian	6-11	Sr.	C	Oklahoma City, OK
Melvin Taylor	Trevecca Nazarene TN	6-2	Sr.	G	Mt. Pleasant, TN
Sedale Threatt	West Virginia Tech	6-2	Sr.	G	Atlanta, GA
Eddie Wilkins	Gardner-Webb NC	6-10	Jr.	C	Cartersville, GA

Melvin Taylor

Another way the Class of '83 breaks tradition!

Congratulations Melvin from your class!

NAVIGATION

Another reason why, in the Tennessee Air National Guard, the sky isn't the limit.

Right now, we're looking for qualified people with bachelor's degrees who want to learn navigation and become an important part of the flight crews who guard America's skies.

This is an officer position with many fine benefits, including good pay, excellent training, retirement benefits, BX privileges and low-cost life insurance.

In the Tennessee Air National Guard, you'll have the chance to travel all across the United States and overseas. You'll be helping to protect your country, state and hometown in times of emergency. And you'll definitely be adding some excitement to your life!

Best of all, the Air Guard is a part-time job, so you'll have plenty of free time to pursue your civilian career.

If you're ready to learn an important skill while you earn an excellent part-time income, contact the Tennessee Air National Guard today. Call 361-4600.

We Guard America's Skies.

